FIFA 22 also brings an improved 3-D player model, which captures the actual animation of players and creates a more intuitive and realistic experience. Every visual appearance of a player has been refined, including facial expression, clothing style and more. Players also run better and move faster thanks to a new fluid and natural tackle animation system. When players perform acrobatic maneuvers like flicks and tricks, that movement is performed using joint animation. These movements will be further refined, and players will display more highly-realistic actions like a ball lobbed to a teammate in a tight space or a perfect flick to beat a player off the dribble. FIFA 22 uses a brand-new ball physics engine that will allow players to feel the weight and surface properties of the ball better. This new ball physics engine also has a new feeling of rotation and deformation when a player strikes the ball. We've also improved our Goalkeeper AI, which can now generate save strategies from a sophisticated combination of specific and reactive playing styles, as well as a combination of timing and anticipation. In addition, new Player Intelligence assists now interact intelligently with and react to the flow of the game. For example, they will now have the ability to change the direction of their run off the ball in tight spaces and will be able to complete short passes without losing their heads and without leading to a loss of possession. All these new Player Intelligence features, both offensive and defensive, will help to create unique and exciting moments in the game. Below you can watch a new gameplay video and screenshots showing the new Player Intelligence and Commentary systems. We are in the final weeks of development and testing, and we're almost ready to unleash FIFA 22. We can't wait to give you all the details in a few weeks' time.

Differences in pay between genders means that women are paid less than men, but could this be different for digital natives? Women's life expectancy is longer than men's. They are also, in general, more involved in family and care activities and economically less productive, and thus should be paid a lower salary. The Pew Research Centre analysed a sample of 135,000 workers from 61 developed countries on the gender pay gap and found that it doesn't exist in any of them for people aged 15 to 64, but it
