Dear Readers, We are trying to set up this website with the best of intentions, however, as all bloggers we have to take a big chance by saying how much we love the international student community. So, we are going to be honest with you. Between strong friendships, local accents and welcoming ways, Hong Kong is a place that has a special place in our hearts. From the university life, to the very best of meals, shopping experiences, nightlife, bars, hostels, traditional housing options, cultural and social experiences and most importantly the people, Hong Kong is a place we are proud to call "home". The blog will be of use to international students who are considering coming to Hong Kong to study and allow them to make choices based on their personal experiences and time in Hong Kong. A website like this helps to set us as pioneers in the international student community, as far as blogging is concerned, and to make university life much easier for you, one of our keen followers! If you have any views on how we can improve our blog,

One has to wonder if the "troublemaker" was just bragging, or if he truly did intend to disrupt the game or if he was actually trying to do serious damage. Either way, the "troublemaker" must not have been involved long, because the game was just about starting when he showed up. I am sorry to say, this "troublemaker" put on his best keister-scratcher and upset the entire Little League team. However, the games weren't stopped due to the "troublemaker"'s act, which just shows how little this kid needed to do to ruin the whole game. In an NFL game between the Kansas e79caf774b
