In a tweet posted to his official Air Force account on Thursday, Vance Eubanks, who serves as the acting director of the Defense Department's Space Operations Command, told his followers to disregard rumors about his accepting a donation for his personal library. The act of accepting donations for the personal use of library staff — an unlikely scenario given that the military supplies the military libraries' airmen with books — is not illegal, as long as the funds are used on official library business. Eubanks also said that not only had he never received a donation for the library but also had never given any indication to the Air Force that he would accept a donation for the library. As of midday, Eubanks' account, which is verified by Twitter, was showing 905 followers. The comment was very likely aimed at the former Chief of Staff of the Air Force, Gen. Mark Welsh, who has been under investigation for an unknown number of months, according to a report by Bloomberg Wednesday. Gen. Welsh was the first and highest-ranking officer
