Many in the industry believe the introduction of “HyperMotion Technology” was timed for the release of FIFA 22, which raises the question: Is this game’s cover athlete Jordan Henderson really the best player in the world? There are few players who embody the qualities of a modern global superstar better than Jordan Henderson. He embodies the beautiful game: his example stands as a model for how a modern footballer can make a difference on and off the pitch. He was voted Football Writers’ Association player of the year last season and is one of the nation’s most exciting young players. He is a key figure in Liverpool’s England squad and will complete his fifth season in the Premier League in the coming weeks. I was lucky enough to speak to Jordan Henderson about FIFA 22 and his career and asked him to pick which player in the world he thinks is best. Here is his list – with a few words about each in italics. Andrej Kramaric (Ajax) – The greatest Swiss footballer of all time, he played for Chelsea, Barcelona, Inter Milan and Valencia among other clubs. Luis Suarez (Barcelona) – Scored 104 goals in just 209 La Liga matches for Barcelona. Lionel Messi (Barcelona) – The best player of all time, it’s no question. Neymar (Barcelona) – “He’s amazing, he’s incredible,” says Henderson. “He’s up there with anyone and I can’t see him not being the best for a long time. Mohamed Salah (Liverpool) – “He’s unbelievable. His goals and assists aren’t always beautiful, but he’s unique. He’s so strong and I think he’s amazing.” Julian Weigl (Borussia Dortmund) – “I’ve watched him a lot of times,” says Henderson. “He’s a world-class player. I like him as a footballer, he’s fun to watch. He’s good in the air, he can dribble and shoot.” Antoine Griezmann (Atletico Madrid) – “You don’t know how good he is yet,” says Henderson. “He’s a player who makes assists
